We need YOU!

TODAY the Haverhill Weekly News launches a campaign to help our schoolchildren improve their reading – and discover the joy of books.

We are NOT asking for your money. We are asking for your TIME. And it need only be for a couple of hours a week.

WENDY DAVEY, EDITOR

wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk

We want to recruit volunteers to go into primary schools in Haverhill to listen to children read; to encourage, to help, to motivate, to inspire and to enthuse.

And by doing so you may help them discover the magic of reading – as well as helping them improve a life skill that has a bearing on all of their education, along the way.

We have partnered up with the town's schools and Haverhill Library to run this initiative – but we cannot do it without YOU.

This is a fantastic opportunity for the community to give the schools in our town the support they need to help our children achieve their potential.

Let's get the town's children reading!

DEBRA FOX

A FEW hours of your time – that's all we're after – and it could make all the difference to a child's future.

So why not help inspire a generation by helping them learn to read?

Today, we are launching the Let's Read campaign, which aims to recruit volunteers to go into a school in the town to listen to children read.

Working with eight schools and Haverhill Library, the campaign aims to partner adult volunteers with children in a bid to inspire and encourage the youngsters in reading, and improve their literacy skills.

Participating schools are Burton End Community Primary School, Castle Manor Academy, Churchill Special Free School, Clements Community Primary School, New Cangle Community Primary School, Place Farm Primary Academy, Samuel Ward Academy and Westfield Primary Academy.

Andy Prestoe, head of school at Samuel Ward, said: "I think this is a fantastic opportunity for the community to get together and support the schools.

"Reading is vital for every aspect of education, and encouraging a love of reading is so important.

"I would encourage everybody, if they have got the time, to sign up and support the next generation of readers."

Once volunteers have been recruited, DBS (former CRB) checks will need to be carried out and participants will get the chance to choose the school they would like to work with.

The town's newest school, Churchill, which supports children with speech, language and interaction needs, is keen to get volunteers on board.

READ ON: Weekly News reporter Debra Fox with pupils.

Georgina Ellis, head of school, said: "The pupils will benefit greatly from some additional support with reading. As many of our pupils have social communication difficulties, the opportunity to work with other adults is a huge advantage."

The scheme, which launched in our sister title Newmarket News last year, attracted more than 50 volunteers across seven schools in the town, including the college. Volunteers spend anything from two hours a week at the school.

■ We'll bring you more information next week, but if you're interested, please fill out the form below and drop it in or post it to Haverhill Library, Camps Road, CB9 8HB or to The Editor, Haverhill Weekly News, 15 High Street, Newmarket, CB8 8LX.

If you would like more information, contact reporter Debra Fox on 01353 667916 or editor Wendy Davey on 01638 662581. You can also email debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk.

Please get in touch... this campaign depends on YOU!

Success story

A total of 10 volunteers have been listening to children read at All Saints' CEVA Primary School in Newmarket over the past months.

■ Anne Jordan, Literacy Co-ordinator and Year 2 teacher at the school, has been working closely with the volunteers.

She said: "We really appreciate their commitment... the children are always very keen to read to them, and I am sure that their time in school contributes to the children's continued progress in reading.

"It's very good for the children to see a range of adult role models."

■ Margaret and Mike Jocelyn are volunteers at All Saints' Primary School.

They said: "When you arrive at the school some of the children come up to you and say 'Can I read first?'."

"It is such a pleasure to see how keen they are and also to see marked improvement much of the time."

'It's satisfying to see the children's reading improve'

READ: Peter Cundall with a pupil.

PETER Cundall, 72, has been listening to pupils read at New Cangle Primary School, on Chapple Drive, Haverhill, for more than a decade.

Mr Cundall also helps with other activities every Tuesday morning. He started volunteering in 2001, through the BT School Friends scheme.

"It gives you satisfaction when you see children develop and become better readers," he said. "It is a great thing to do."

Lyn Beale, headteacher, said that having extra volunteers to help the school's children read is very beneficial. "Reading helps with all of the skills that children are going to need to be successful in life," she said.

Street comes alive with entertainment for annual Haverhill Festival

WALKING TALL: This stilt-walking tea lady raised some smiles as she pushed her cake trolley up the High Street

WEIRD and wonderful street performers drew the crowds to Haverhill High Street as part of the town's annual festival on Saturday.

Hailed as "Covent Garden, minus the exorbitant prices", the wacky event saw acrobats, percussionists and an Edwardian nanny entertain those lining the street – and those who had just popped to the market for some shopping.

Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager, said: "There were a lot of excited crowds and there's been a real mix of stuff."

"We have had hundreds of people gathering to watch some of the shows – some have just been passing by doing shopping and taking it in – but a lot have been sticking around."

An eight-foot tall tea lady, a troupe of silver skaters and a group of art critics were also in the town centre, taking part in the festivities.

The free street event, for all the family, formed part of the Haverhill Festival which runs for a month each year.

This year's festival closed on Sunday with a Last Night of the Festival Proms concert, at the Old Independent Church.

This year, the event was a tribute to former mayor and councillor Les Ager, who died in 2013.

HEADTURNERS: Silver Skaters on Haverhill Street Festival. A little 'Superman', two-year-old Stanley Smithson, was clearly enjoying the entertainment, above right.

Council says 'no' again to plans to demolish garages

PLANS to demolish garages across Haverhill to make way for new homes have been thrown out.

Five applications in total were entered by Havebury Housing Partnership earlier this year – but after much objection from residents and councillors alike, some of the plans were revised and some were withdrawn by Havebury.

The revised applications, for Cambridge Way and Nayland Road, were put before St Edmundsbury Borough Council's Development Control Committee last week.

The application for Nayland Road was thrown out completely by the committee and plans for Cambridge Way have been "minded to refuse".

Council officers will now research the implication of the committee ruling against that particular application.

This will be discussed at the next committee meeting.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, who represents Haverhill South, and is on the committee, said: "We need to find a rational reason to refuse an application. With Nayland Road, the parking was unacceptable, and they would have been building on green spaces."

Scott Bailey, head of development for Havebury, said the team was "hugely disappointed" by the committee's decision and that all options need to be considered before a decision is made about "next steps".

He added: "These proposals would have provided an opportunity for local people to move into modern, energy-efficient affordable homes on established estates in Haverhill and help address the high demand for affordable housing in the area."

As previously reported, plans for Norton Road and Orford Road were withdrawn, and have not been re-submitted.

More than 80 complaints were received for those two applications alone, from residents living near to the proposed development site, or who rented garages that could have been demolished.

Local people were concerned about losing their garage spaces, as well as expressing fears about overcrowding and invasion of privacy if new homes were built too close to their existing ones.

An application for homes on Ladygate was also thrown out completely.

Cllr Tony Brown, who represents Haverhill East, said: "I was worried that if it did get approved it would set a precedent for all the other estates in Haverhill, and their garages."

He and Cllr Julian Flood, who represents Haverhill Cangle, plan to ask Suffolk County Council to unlock some of the brownfield sites they own to be used for affordable housing.

Cllr Flood added: "The most impressive thing about the meeting was the way our residents spoke up for themselves – people who have never done anything like this standing up for their homes."

'Menace' gets jail term for shoplifting

DEBRA FOX

A SHOPLIFTER, hailed as a "menace" by Haverhill's policing commander, has been jailed.

David Kemp, 34, of Fritton Court, has been jailed for 33 weeks after pleading guilty to eight counts of shoplifting – and a further count of theft.

Kemp was released on bail on June 27 after pleading guilty to six offences of shoplifting at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court.

This was in relation to five offences in Haverhill between May 7 and June 26, and one offence in Ipswich on April 7.

The 34-year-old also indicated a guilty plea to a charge of theft of an X-Box in Haverhill, on June 14.

After being released on bail, and while awaiting sentence, Kemp was re-arrested on July 2 and charged with a further offence of shoplifting, on June 22, and theft in relation to a charity box which was stolen from a restaurant in the town on June 28.

Inspector Peter Ferrie, policing commander for Haverhill, has hailed the sentence as a win for the local police force, and people.

JAILED: David Kemp pleaded guilty to eight counts of shoplifting and one of theft

He said: "I'm delighted that David Kemp has received a substantial term in prison for these offences."

"He was a menace to shopkeepers and businesses throughout Haverhill and was responsible for a long catalogue of crimes."

"We have a small ring of professional shoplifters in Haverhill and this sends out a strong message to them that if caught they will receive a lengthy custodial sentence."

Kemp was remanded in custody after being re-arrested, and pleaded guilty to the further charges at magistrates' court on July 3.

AN AMATEUR cyclist is taking on a 35 mile round trip to raise money for charity.

Paul Stevenson, of Falcon Close, Haverhill, will travel from the town to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, and back, on Sunday.

Accompanied by friends Louis Spencer and Oli Ison, he is trying to raise as much money as possible for the hospital's breast unit.

His mum Karen, 53, was diagnosed with breast cancer earlier this year and is undergoing chemotherapy.

Aerocycles, in Haverhill, have serviced Paul's bike for free.

Charity game for Arran Tosh

A DAY of football and fundraising is taking place in memory of a much-loved teenager.

Arran Tosh, of Sudbury, died in June just a few days after being diagnosed with a brain tumour.

Now, a charity game and a day of other fundraising challenges is taking place in the teenager's memory.

The event is on Saturday, July 19 at Lawn Meadow, the football ground of Hedinghams United, in Sible Hedingham from 11am.

Kick-off between Hedingham under 14s and Halstead under 14s will be at midday.

The 13-year-old, who was also a member of Haverhill Centre Stage, was a keen fundraiser – and was planning events for Cancer Research UK when he died.

A group of Arran's friends will be shaving their heads on the day and, if they raise enough money, a leg wax will be taking place too.

Garry Heather, manager of Hedinghams United, said: "Everyone has been so supportive and really got behind it."

There will also be a bouncy castle, barbecue, other refreshments and other stalls.

Since his death, Arran's Just Giving page has rocketed to more than £18,000.

Visit justgiving.co.uk/Arran-Tosh to make a donation.

The photograph, right, was taken near South Bank Skatepark, in London, and featured Mr Hancock on a Boris Bike. The MP declined to comment.

GPs want your views over merger plans

DEBRA FOX

PATIENTS are being invited to take part in a consultation over the merger of two surgeries.

Stourview Medical Centre and Dr Selby & Partners in Haverhill are set to merge and create one practice, with a new name, by this autumn.

The plan has been given approval, in principle, by NHS England – and has been hailed as a “positive change” for patients, by doctors.

Dr Neville Selby, partner, said: “I can understand that some Stourview Medical Centre patients may have concerns about the move, however, I can assure them the merger will be good for healthcare provision in the town.

“By giving their views on the move, we can address any issues patients may have so that the transition is straightforward and hassle free.”

Dr Bamidele Sule is currently the only GP partner at Stourview. To continue with his patient list on his own is “not sustainable”, he said.

Combining the practices will see an increased range of health services, more GP choice and improved continuity of care.

“By merging with Dr Selby & Partners I will be able to continue to practice in Haverhill,” he said.

“To replace my previous GP partner will take up to one year, due to national ongoing GP recruitment issues within the NHS, and it is not sustainable for me to continue as one GP with a list of 4,000 patients.”

The consultation will run from July 14 until August 31 and patients are being encouraged to share their views and contact their practice manager with any concerns.

Patients can collect a questionnaire from either surgery, or visit christmasmaltings.co.uk or stourviewmedical.com to take part.

The results of the consultation will be assessed independently.

Man, 42, jailed for attack in pub

A DRUNK man, who gave another man a brain haemorrhage with one punch, has been jailed for 16 months.

Andrew Jenkins, 42, pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful wounding and was sentenced on Monday at Ipswich Crown Court.

Jenkins, of Bute Court, Haverhill, was drinking in the Suffolk Punch pub, Leiston Road, on April 6 this year.

He attacked Robert Darlington in the early hours of the morning leaving him with a fractured skull, broken nose, temporary hearing problems – and a brain haemorrhage which required eight days of hospitalization.

Mr Darlington visited the pub with his wife on the way home from a family barbecue.

Raj Joshi, prosecuting, said that the injuries meant Mr Darlington was still not allowed to drive, and is nervous about going out.

A statement from him said: “I have been left with not only physical scars but also emotional scars.”

Rebecca Wastall, mitigating, told the court that Jenkins had no previous convictions, and lashed out at his victim after misinterpreting what he thought were “funny looks”.

He was “paranoid” from drinking and had consumed eight pints of beer.

She said: “He is absolutely appalled with himself that the outcome of a single blow has had the outcome that it has.”

Judge Rupert Overbury also ordered Jenkins, a working father-of-two, to pay £2,000 compensation to Mr Darlington.

Judge Overbury said: “People who cause serious injuries have to go to prison.”

Yes, councillors do complain too much

I WOULD like to say a bit about how I feel about Councillor Griffiths remarks about 'carping' from Haverhill Town Council.

I can see where he is coming from in relation to the town council going on about being short-changed.

Could St Edmundsbury do a break down of what I get for my council tax element each year (empty bins, planning, grants etc)?

They do a lot for the money within the borough of St Edmundsbury.

I probably speak for most of the people of Haverhill when I say I've had enough of the majority of the labour group who "keep carping on" about being taken for a ride by the borough council.

I think we're being taken for a ride by the town council.

Here are a few points:

1. They keep spending money like they have got an endless money pot
2. my council tax element to the town council keeps going up year on year
3. They have no clout whatsoever when it comes to influencing decisions made by the borough
4. The Arts Centre is costing a fortune to run each year and they're going to take on a youth hub (they will want more money from us next year).

I think the town council should be disbanded and just be individuals with no political alliance.

It should be run like a business, supporting activities in the town.

I don't vote in the town council elections because it's a waste of time and money.

Review for Alice – The Musical, by Cambridge Touring Theatre

FROM the moment we arrived, we were drawn into Alice's crazy and curious Wonderland as the actors mingled amongst the building crowd asking the children's names and complimenting them on their fancy dress.

This was our fourth year coming to East Town Park to see the Cambridge Touring Theatre and they never disappoint.

The plot, although a little over my head sometimes, flowed very well and the songs were truly infectious as the audience was counted on to sing along at the right moment.

As always there was a lot of audience (or ruff raff as we were affectionately called) participation from the sing-a-longs to some of the dads having to get up on stage and generally be made a fool of but it was all in good humour.

For me, the star of the show this year was James Clifford who played the White Rabbit, Bird and Gardener.

Right from the start he got the audience on side and kept the show moving.

However all the cast played their roles well and the audience was thoroughly entertained on what was a beautifully warm evening.

FUN DAY: The open day at Dizzy Ducks Day Nursery in Haverhill.

'Carnival' open day at nursery

A CARNIVAL-style open day has been held at a Haverhill nursery.

Dizzy Ducks Day Nursery, on Homefield Road, invited parents, children and guests to the event, held last month.

A bouncy castle, barbecue, indoor disco, face painting and games were on offer for children – and special guest Magic Oily entertained guests too.

Police officers from the town's station also paid a visit to show children the squad car and sirens.

More than 150 people attended throughout the day to find out more about out of school clubs and holiday clubs – as well as to enjoy the event.

For more information, visit dizzyducks.co.uk or call 01440 702151.

Afternoon tea party raises hundreds

AN AFTERNOON of tea and cakes has raised hundreds of pounds for a cancer charity.

The Marie Curie Blooming Great Tea Party, held at Kedington Community Centre on Saturday by Barbara Tyler, has raised more than £600 – which will be spent on services across Suffolk.

Organised by Mrs Tyler in memory of her husband, who was cared for by Marie Curie nurses, the tea party attracted more than 50 guests, who filled the village's centre.

As well as endless hot drinks and refreshments, guests could also take part in a variety of games and shop around a range of stalls – including guess how many tea bags and a teddy bear stall.

Sheila Jeffery, senior healthcare assistant and chairwoman of the fundraising group for Newmarket and Bury St Edmunds, said: "It was absolutely wonderful – I'm so pleased it was full and raised so much money."

Around £8 million has been raised nationally for the charity this year.

Visit mariecurie.org.uk for further information about the charity, and on how you can hold your own fundraiser.

Active Audrey wins a prize

A LEISURE centre member has taken home a hamper filled with luxury goodies.

Audrey Ramsden-Green, of Roman Way, Haverhill, returned from her recent holiday to discover she had won first prize in a raffle.

The Marks & Spencer hamper was given to her by Premier Travel, which has a branch in the town.

Audrey said: "I'm very happy to have won the hamper."

"I have just returned from holiday so it was a real surprise and now our kitchen cupboards will be stocked up. I'm sure my husband will help me eat the hamper goodies."

Audrey attends a Keep Active class at the leisure centre.

More than 100 people take part in the sessions.

The classes, designed for over 50s, run on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Backing for Summer Bash event

THE second Summer Bash has been boosted by a local councillor.

Cllr Gordon Cox, borough councillor, has invested £400 from his locality budget into the two-day event, being held this month.

Each borough councillor gets £2,500 to spend as part of a new locality grants scheme, Cllr John Griffiths, council leader, revealed.

He added: "[Cllr Cox] is the first of 45 St Edmundsbury councillors to spend from locality funding."

The Summer Bash, which was held for the first time last year, is being held across an entire weekend – with sports activities, live music and traditional competitions, plus other entertainment on offer. Cllr Cox said: "This is the first year the bash has been extended to cover the whole weekend."

"My funding will go specifically to the sports day on the Saturday, although I still have locality money available for other community organisations and groups like PTAs and friends of schools to apply for."

The Summer Bash is being held on July 19 at The New Croft and on July 20 at the recreation ground.

£2 million boost for park

A ONE-OF-A-KIND centre, to be built at Haverhill Research Park, has been boosted by £2 million of funding.

The money, which has come from the Government's Growth Deal, will go directly towards the £5 million hub – named the Epicentre.

Planning permission was granted last month for the centre, which will have meeting rooms, training facilities, a cafe and conference spaces.

DEBRA FOX

Located opposite the research park's lake, it will be a focal point of the new development.

An application for the money was made by the Greater Cambridge Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership (GCGP) and New Anglia Local Enterprise Partnership.

Grahame Nix, chief executive of GCGP, said: "Haverhill Research Park is ideally located to provide much-needed new innovation space for a range of pioneering businesses looking to start up and grow."

"Its location close to Cambridge – the globally renowned innovation capital – means we can help to expand the positive impact of the Cambridge phenomenon beyond the city boundaries enabling the wider economy to flourish."

Cllr Roger André, town mayor, added: "This is more recognition that Haverhill is a great place to do business."

"It is excellent news for local people and a great incentive for other businesses to seriously consider Haverhill as their base."

Cllr André also praised Nic Rumsey, owner of Carisbrooke, for encapsulating the town's "spirit of enterprise".

Leigh's team are on a mission...

A MUM-of-two and her team are on a mission for Cancer Research UK.

Leigh Lamb was diagnosed with cervical cancer in 2008 and had part of her bowel removed in February this year after being diagnosed with the illness again.

Along with sons Dru, 9, and Jay, 12, and her family and friends, Leigh is running the Race for Life in Cambridge on July 20.

She said: "We are focusing on the good, and trying to raise as much money as possible for other people who haven't been so lucky."

Leigh, of Victoria Road, Haverhill, has opted out of chemotherapy and is currently focusing on healthy eating and exercise.

She added: "I am feeling great so far. I'm staying positive and that definitely helps. If you think you're ill, you're going to make yourself ill."

Physio services clinic launched

AN OUTREACH clinic for physiotherapy services has been launched in Haverhill.

The town held its first clinic for children's musculoskeletal physiotherapy and adult respiratory physiotherapy last month at Clements Surgery, on Greenfields Way.

Patients needing treatment for these conditions will no longer have to travel to West Suffolk Hospital, in Bury St Edmunds.

Matthew Hancock, West Suffolk MP, has praised the announcement.

He said: "The new outreach clinics will bring services closer to patients' homes, reducing travelling time and creating a more personal service of care."

"The clinics will help relieve pressure on the local GP practices while simultaneously allowing patients to access specialist treatment on their doorstep."

DEBRA FOX

The paediatric clinics will provide treatment for patients under 16 with a wide range of musculoskeletal conditions such as Erb's palsy, foot deformities, torticollis and plagiocephaly.

Patients attending the respiratory clinics can be treated for illnesses including asthma, COPD and recurring chest infections.

Helen Stewart, respiratory physiotherapist, said: "Our main aim is to educate our patients so that they can learn to manage their condition more effectively, in turn increasing their independence."

"We are committed to making it as easy as possible for people to access the specialist care we provide, and are really pleased that these clinics will reduce the distance patients need to travel while bringing services closer to home."

As previously reported, Haverhill is in line to get a range of outreach services in a bid to improve health provision in the town.

An ECG machine has also been secured for the town, and Mr Hancock is campaigning for an X-ray machine.

He added: "I am pleased by this announcement, but it must signify the start of more improvements to come to help overall healthcare in Haverhill."

A new clinic has also opened in Thetford, and there are also services in Newmarket and Sudbury.

If you want to attend the clinic, talk to your GP.

Businessman handed driving ban

A PHOTOGRAPHER has been banned from driving for more than a year after being caught behind the wheel while almost double the legal limit.

David Doughty, from The Gallery in Queen Street, Haverhill, was caught with 63 microgrammes of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath while he was driving in Greenfields Way on June 22. The legal limit is 35 microgrammes.

Doughty appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court on Tuesday.

Doughty, 46, was disqualified from driving for 17 months, but this will be reduced by 17 weeks if he completes a driving course by June 10, 2015.

He was also ordered to pay a £250 fine, £25 victim surcharge and £85 in costs to the Crown Prosecution Service.

Doughty was also in breach of a conditional discharge, imposed in January, but no action was taken.

VINTAGE: One of the vehicles taking part in the transport rally and road run

Climb aboard for quirky transport rally

AN eclectic mix of vehicles will fill the Arts Centre car park on Sunday for Haverhill's Transport Rally and road run.

Vintage cars, lorries, vans, fire engines and military vehicles will all be on display for visitors to enjoy – before they take to the road for a wild ride.

A road run through Bartlow, Ashdon, Saffron Walden, Radwinter and Steeple Bumpstead is taking place – as well as half-hourly tours on a vintage open-top bus.

Mike Hickford, secretary of the Historic Commercial Vehicle Society, said: "We are delighted to be partnering with Haverhill Town Council on this project again."

New attractions being added this year include two miniature traction engines, and an old-style children's roundabout.

The Arts Centre will also be open all day for refreshments, and archive footage will be shown.

The road run starts at 11.30am. Trophies will be awarded at 4.30pm by mayor Roger Andre.

Start your engines for new motor show

AN inaugural motor show will be zooming into Haverhill this weekend.

The event, organised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, will be incorporated into the town's weekly market on Saturday.

Vintage vehicles, fast cars and some of the latest models from Drive Vauxhall, the town's local dealership, will be on display across the square.

DEBRA FOX

Visitors can also be entertained by street performers, an airbrushing display and a policeman – walking on stilts.

Cllr Alaric Pugh, cabinet member for economic growth, said: "This is our first Haverhill Market Motor Show.

"The market is an important part of the town and we, and our traders, are keen to be involved in some of the excellent events that are taking place.

"We hope that the market motor show will also become a popular regular feature among our events in Haverhill."

The council is still seeking car enthusiasts wishing to display their motors on the day.

If you want to be involved, contact Sharon Fairweather, market development officer for West Suffolk, on 01284 757093.

You can also email sharon.fairweather@west.suffolk.gov.uk.

Popular

A SUMMER concert featuring the popular classics is taking place on Sunday.

Held by Haverhill Choral Society at Clare Town Hall, the concert will entertain audiences with a range of performances from popular shows.

Pieces from composers Richard Rodgers, Cole Porter and Stephen Foster are also on the bill.

Tickets cost £8, refreshments included. The concert starts at 7.30pm.

Proposals put forward for housing development near new relief road

PROPOSALS for almost 50 new homes in Haverhill are open for public consultation.

An exhibition, put together by Capita, was held at Castle Manor Academy on Tuesday – and residents have until later this month to share their views.

Forty nine homes have been proposed for land north of Brickfields Drive, just a short distance from the town's north west development and new relief road, which were approved last month.

As well as having seven two-bedroom units, 11 three-bedroom houses, 28 four-bedroom houses and three five-bedroom houses, the development will also provide "public open space" and "local area for play".

The homes would be two to two-and-a-half stories high, and residents would access the town via the A1307 Withersfield Road.

Constraints for the development have already been recognised – they include the proximity of the new homes to the relief road, the distance to the nearest bus stop and the "sensitive boundary" to the existing properties, south of the site.

A planning application is expected to be entered in the coming months, once responses from the consultation have been collated.

To share your views on the proposals email haverhill@public-engage.co.uk or call 01243 361611 by July 22.

The event is starting at 7.30pm, at Haverhill Arts Centre.

Windows smashed by vandals

THREE vans had their windows smashed in Haverhill.

The crimes occurred overnight between June 30 and July 1 in Withersfield Road and Mallow Walk.

A white Vauxhall Vivaro van, a silver Renault Traffic van and another Vauxhall Vivaro van were targeted.

The white Vauxhall, which was parked in a pub car park on Withersfield Road, had its glovebox searched.

It has not been confirmed whether or not anything was stolen.

Outstanding students honoured

COLLEGE students have been awarded for their hard work in a prizegiving ceremony.

The West Suffolk College event, held at St Edmundsbury Cathedral, saw more than 50 students take home prizes for their achievements – including Mark Petchey, from Haverhill.

Mark won the Cecil & Larter Motor Vehicle Advanced Apprenticeship of the Year, Level 3.

He is studying on the Vehicle Maintenance and Repair Advanced Apprenticeship, Level 3.

Mark said: "I was shocked when the letter came through the door, I've done very well for myself and I was really pleased."

Chance to grow at new park

MEMBERS of a Cambridge-based networking group have been given a tour around Haverhill Research Park.

Visitors were told about opportunities for both small and large businesses on the site – and also learned about the "hub" of the new park.

Planning permission was granted last month for The Epicentre, a four-storey innovation centre for businesses.

Louise Rushworth, of Cambridge Network, said: "We are delighted to have learnt about the opportunities Haverhill Research Park can offer both now with a virtual office, and as the development progresses."

"We look forward to visiting again, and forging closer links between Haverhill and Cambridge."

A virtual offer for the centre has already launched – and businesses are being encouraged to sign up now to receive use of an innovation centre address, a domain name and post handling services.

Those signed up for the virtual deal will also be able to use conference rooms and meeting spaces at Days Inn Haverhill at a reduced rate. Free Wi-Fi is also available to virtual office tenants.

Nic Rumsey, director of Carisbrooke, said: "We were very happy to host the Cambridge Network meeting, and show the potential opportunities for small and large businesses alike."

"Our goal here at Haverhill is to provide high quality accommodation in a great location to tenants or freeholders at cost effective prices – yet still with a Cambridge postcode."

The research park is on Three Counties Way, Withersfield, and is located on the borders of Cambridge, Essex and Suffolk.

First novel in her 80s... it's a life less ordinary for Sheila

They say life begins at 40. But for Sheila Belbin, who has remarried and published her first novel in her 80s, it seems that life begins rather later. Emma Higginbotham meets her

ANYONE who dismisses the elderly as weak or past their best should have a cup of tea with Sheila Belbin. She may be petite and softly spoken, but don't be fooled: at nearly 86, Sheila has the verve and ambition of somebody half her age.

For a start she's found love again – Sheila met Meredith Belbin in her late 70s, and they're soon to celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary. Then there's the new career: for decades a successful lawyer, Sheila is now a novelist – her Second World War romantic thriller Beloved Enemy is out in paperback, and a fat screenplay sits on the coffee table between us in her Barton home.

Did she ever think published author with film in pipeline? "No I certainly didn't!" she laughs. "I still call that film 'Cloud Cuckoo Land', but of course I'm very pleased. There are inevitable problems as one grows older, but since my book has been published, life has been emotionally exhausting – but very exciting."

Yet there is a sombre twist to the tale: the book may never have come about had Sheila not spent two harrowing years caring for her heavily-drinking ex-husband, who'd come back to live with her at the end of his life.

Born in Birmingham in 1928, only-child Sheila had to fend for herself from an early age. Just nine when her father died suddenly of a heart attack, she found herself living alone in digs when her mother took a job in a mental health unit. Eventually she was given a room in the hospital, "but it was very frightening for a child," she recalls. "Unfortunately I had to come through the wards to get to the room, and saw all these people... For someone very young it was very traumatic. I hated it, and used to rush through."

Eventually she was given a room sharing with her mother, "and my memories of that, again, are not delightful: it overlooked the mortuary. When I was upstairs doing my homework, I'd look out of the window and there they are, taking the bodies in.

Not nice!"

Fortunately her mother found a new job in London, but while she busied herself with work, Sheila was increasingly left to her own devices. "I learned to take care of myself," she says. "I remember I travelled around all over the place looking for a suitable school on my own. My mother couldn't take the time really, or didn't want to. I must've been 13, and I visited many schools, finally ending up at Finchley County Grammar School. I remember the headmaster saying 'Haven't you got anyone you can bring to the interview?' And I said 'No, I do all this myself. I have to'. I was probably headmaster's pet from then on."

After school, Sheila's mother couldn't afford to send her to university, so she took a part-time course at a London polytechnic studying social philosophy, psychology and economics. She excelled, passing a law module with a score of 98 per cent – the highest the polytechnic had ever had – "so I thought 'Well I must be fairly good at that!'"

Deciding to go to law school, Sheila found herself one of only a handful of women – and it was thanks to one of them that she met her future husband, Tony Munds.

"She had a party and invited all us girls along, and Tony was there. We neither of us liked cocktail parties very much, we were bored stiff, and that's when he made straight for me. We talked and never stopped talking."

Meanwhile, Sheila began working in various law practices, where it was unusual to be a lady. "Very unusual! I think there were about seven per cent of women who qualified," she says. "I ultimately had my own practice, and I was supposed to be one of about three per cent of women who did."

She loved her career, and has particularly fond memories of working for a large criminal law practice: "They acted for all the well-known criminals: some of the train robbers, and Richardson, the torturer. There were some strange characters, so it was very colourful all round. "But I think the people I met in the East End were the loveliest," she adds. "There was one old stick who the receptionists used to be afraid of because she looked like a witch: at a time when women wore short skirts, she had a great long black skirt down to the floor and a black hat.

"I was assigned to act for this old dear, and she came to see me one day with a whole pile of rent books, and said: 'I want you to make my will. I own all these properties' – it was a couple of streets in Walthamstow, if not more – and she said 'Dear, I want to leave my properties to my tenants, and I don't want them to know. What a lovely surprise they'll all have one day'.

"When I left the firm she hadn't died, but I assume that will was carried out. So that was nice. I also had some pretty frightening clients, pretty awful – but that's how it was."

Sheila married Tony at 33, and set up her own practice when she was nearly 40, but never had children: "I probably couldn't have had them," she says. "I had endometriosis, which is quite common, but in those days they didn't know how to deal with it, and it often prevented women from having children." Was she disappointed? "Yes and no. Tony didn't want children anyway; he always wanted a career woman. I was his third wife, and he used to say it was his best marriage.

"But we divorced after about 16 years. He met another woman. And life being what it is, she's now a personal friend," says Sheila with a smile. At the time, though, she was devastated: "Oh of course! I didn't want it to happen. I thought perhaps I'd concentrated too much on my work."

After a long and successful career, Sheila officially retired at 68, although she continued to draw up wills. She and Tony remained friends and, at the end of his life, he came back to live with her "purely a friend. I had a large flat and he had his own room. But he drank himself to death. I always feel disloyal to him if I say very much about it, because the last two years of his life just were not him.

"For the last two years he drank nothing but wine. No tea, no coffee, no water – nothing but wine, from the time he woke up in the morning to the time he went to bed. Once I had to get the ambulance out 23 times in a month."

Yet one positive that came out of the sad situation was that Sheila began to write a novel. "I started then because I had the chance," she shrugs. "He wanted to go to bed at 5 o'clock, so I could have just watched the television, but I thought 'Well, this is my opportunity to write this book. I've got plenty of time'. I was always a night owl, and didn't mind sitting up late writing it."

Happily the words flowed, "because I knew what I wanted to write. I never sat sucking a pencil, or looking at a blank sheet. I used to plan it as I walked along the road."

Beloved Enemy tells the tale of Allison Grant, a young Anglo-German woman recruited to spy on a German colonel. Inevitably she falls in love with him, but is torn between her happiness and doing her duty – a duty that takes a sinister turn.

The story was inspired by Sheila's Franco-German friend Colette, who lived throughout the war in German-occupied Alsace-

Lorraine. Her family often had German soldiers billeted on them, including an officer who was in charge of the cattle trucks that transported the Jews to a nearby concentration camp, "and she remembers this man just bursting into tears at their table, saying he couldn't go on with it any more. He was recalled to Berlin, and they never heard of him again.

"So my aim through the book really was to show that there is good and bad in all races. History is always written by the victors, and they don't always get it quite accurate."

Tony eventually died in hospital in 2006, "and a couple of months later I met Meredith." It was a chance meeting, but Sheila knew "pretty soon" that Meredith was the one for her. "I'd always said I'd never marry again, but we were at Meredith's solicitors – Meredith was instructing on his will – and the solicitor said 'Will you be getting married?' And Meredith said 'Yes, if she'll have me'. He'd never said anything to me about it! And I said 'Yes of course, if that's what you want...'

With her life once more a social whirl, Sheila all but forgot about the book. "It just went dormant," she says. "I did write to two agents and had very nice letters in return, but they didn't think it was their genre, so I just put it to one side." But reading an article in Good Housekeeping was to change everything. "It was about a woman who'd had her book published in the States, and I thought 'Why don't I try these people?'

"These people" turned out to be Authorhouse, who were so delighted with how well the book was received that they've had it adapted into a screenplay. Does she think it would make a good film? "Well I don't go to modern films, but I hear that's the sort of thing they do," smiles Sheila.

"So we just have to keep our fingers crossed: it goes into a bank in Hollywood, and when a filmmaker wants to make a film, they go along to the bank and see what sort of film they would like to make.

"The trouble is, of course, it takes about two years to make a film," she adds, laughing. "So I said 'Well, it may be after my demise by the time they get round to it!'

I suspect that the indomitable Mrs Belbin will be around for rather longer than that... Beloved Enemy by Sheila Munds-Belbin is published by Authorhouse, priced £12.95. To order, call 0800 197 4150 or visit authorhouse.co.uk.

the GUIDE

Chrissie Hynde

More than 35 years after forming The Pretenders, Hynde has gone solo. But, as she tells Andy Welch, it's turned into quite the team effort

■ Latitude, Henham Park, Suffolk, July 16-21. Weekend tickets £195.50 (including camping) from latitudefestival.seetickets.com

WE'RE readying ourselves for East Anglia's artiest music, literary and comedy festival, Latitude, and guess who they've bagged to perform? Only Chrissie Hynde!

"Don't let this exotic Ohio accent fool you, I've lived in the UK for 40 years," says Chrissie by way of introduction.

Despite her time in Britain – she moved here in 1973 after becoming obsessed with the idea of working for music magazine NME, which she later did – her American accent is still relatively strong, but underneath that, there's a sarcasm and bite that could only be from British shores. "You think I'm cynical?" she asks.

"Oscar Wilde said the cynic knows the price of everything and the value of nothing. I don't know if that's true about me. But don't get me wrong, I hate everything, so if that makes me a cynic, so be it."

She goes on to detail a normal day in her life. "You want to know about the lifestyle of the rich and famous," she says, mockingly. "Well, where do I start?"

It turns out Hynde spends a lot of her time at the cinema, "normally on my own so I can leave if I'm not enjoying the film and not have an argument". She also dines in her favourite restaurants, again, on her own, so she can read while she eats. "I'm in a book group too, because I like talking about books."

An image springs to mind: Hynde, in customary skin-tight black jeans and vest, jet-black feather cut almost unchanged since the 70s, sitting with a group of middle-aged mums discussing 50 Shades Of Grey or the latest Jilly Cooper, all blissfully unaware who the lady with the exotic Ohio accent in the corner is.

"No, it's nothing like that," the singer says, herself amused by the idea. "I'm the least famous person in my book group."

Miranda Richardson is in it, and some others who I won't reveal."

Hynde might play the misanthrope, but you'd be hard pushed to find a more entertaining person to hang out with.

It's clearly what drew the producer of her forthcoming album, Stockholm, to work with her. The producer in question is Bjorn Yttling, formerly of Peter, Bjorn And John, best known for their whistling ditty Young Folks, soundtrack of a million TV adverts.

"I didn't know who he was," says Hynde. "I'd flown to Stockholm to work with him three or four times before the penny dropped and I said, 'Oh, you're the guys from the Homebase ad'."

In The Pretenders – the band she formed in 1978 after drifting in and out of several punk bands – Hynde wrote all the songs. Despite releasing nine albums together, the most recent being 2008's Break Up The Concrete, Hynde's debut solo album is actually her most collaborative yet (and there's a grimace when the term 'solo album' is mentioned).

"It's a goddam awful phrase," she spits. "I never wanted to be solo, and I said a thousand times I never would, so it gives me a cold chill to see my name out there on its own."

"This wasn't for something for the public to know, but now it's happened I have to explain myself... I like being in the background, I'm not the show-off that you think I'm going to be," she says, letting her guard down for a second. "I like getting on stage with the band, but that's as far as it goes. It's squirm-making, and I don't think of myself as a singer-songwriter. I offer what I can do, which is to sing and play guitar, and then the band make me look good."

Each of the songs on the album was co-written with Yttling, which was a new way of working for Hynde. The next 'big name' on the record is even bigger: Neil Young. He's another good friend of Hynde's, one of the many iconic musicians she's supported on tour over the years and subsequently become pals with.

"We had this song on the album [Down The Wrong Way] I kept referring to as the Neil Young song, because of the chord progression. It sounded so like Neil Young," she says, explaining how this collaboration came about. "By the time we were recording it, I'd grown to really like messing with Bjorn, so I thought I'd just ring Neil and ask if he'd play on it. I know him, but it's not something I'd normally do. You know, you don't call God and ask him for a favour."

The mercurial Young agreed, and before long, he was in a London recording studio performing his first-ever guest spot on another artist's album. "It couldn't be anyone else playing," says Hynde, still finding it hard to believe he said yes. "He really does sound like the best of Neil in the solo he plays, it's amazing."

Hynde will be performing at Latitude, alongside the likes of Cambridge's very own Clean Bandit, Haim, Damon Albarn and The Black Keys.

"I won't be playing any of the old Pretenders songs," she asserts. "I can understand why there are acts out there playing all their old music, but it doesn't turn me on, not at all. If you're not making records that people want to buy any more, or that even speak for themselves, then play the hits."

"I'd rather do something that feels right, right now. Playing old hits isn't that much fun, unless you haven't done anything for the last 35 years," Hynde concludes. "For me, I've done a lot in the last 35 years, and having fun is everything."

Latest news and events from

■ Over the years our EDINBURGH FRINGE PREVIEWERS have seen some of the best UK comedians try out their material at the Arts Centre before they head up to Edinburgh. This year we have some more excellent acts; tomorrow PAUL CHOWDRY returns to Haverhill and on Friday July 18 we have ROB BECKETT (best known as a co-host on the ITV2 show I'm a Celebrity ... Get Me Out of Here! NOW!). The fun starts at 8pm for both shows; prepare for some rib-tickling, those chuckle muscles will be doing overtime!

■ Baroque Theatre brings UP POMPEII by Miles Tredinnick to the Arts Centre on Saturday. Based on the original characters from the Frankie Howerd BBC comedy, this hilarious romp through ancient Pompeii brings back all the television favourites in this full-length play. As Lurcio attempts to deliver his prologue and begin proceedings, he's quickly caught up in the myriad of liaisons in all quarters of his master's house. Why does Ludicrus not leave for the Senate meeting in Rome? And why does his wife return so quickly from the country? Guaranteed titling from the start at 7.30pm to the finish! Suitable for ages 14 and over.

■ Bill Nighy and Carey Mulligan feature in the National Theatre Live broadcast of SKYLIGHT, the highly anticipated production of David Hare's play on Thursday July 17 at 7pm. Critics have duly raved and tickets in the West End accordingly sold out. On a bitterly cold London evening, Kyra receives an unexpected visit from her former lover, Tom. As the evening progresses the two attempt to rekindle their once passionate relationship only to find themselves locked in a dangerous battle of opposing ideologies and mutual desires.

■ On the cinema front we have a second showing of tense psychological thriller THE TWO FACES OF JANUARY (12A) on Monday July 14 at 7.30pm. FADING GIGOLO (15) starring Woody Allen, Sharon Stone, Sofia Vergara and John Turturro is showing on Tuesday July 15 at 7.30pm. Verging on insolvency, two old friends Fioravante and Murray hit upon the idea of upscale male prostitution, Murray offering to pimp out Fioravante to their well-heeled female acquaintances. But the two friends get entangled in the mysteries of femininity as they attempt to exploit something they don't fully understand. JIMMY'S HALL (12A) showing on Wednesday July 16 and Thursday July 24 at 7.30pm is directed by Ken Loach and is the true story of Jimmy Gralton's mission to energise a rural community in 1930s

Ireland by opening a dance hall which he sees as a means of overcoming the grinding poverty and cultural isolation wreaked by the Depression.

■ Following the success of previous events, the Haverhill Historic Transport Rally & Road Run will take place on Sunday. The South Car Park behind the Arts Centre will be chock-a-block full of vintage cars, trucks, buses and other commercial vehicles from yesteryear. Entrance is free and there will be free vintage bus rides for everyone every 30 minutes between 1pm and 4pm. The rally starts at 10am and ends at 5pm. A road run of more than 30 vehicles will leave at 11.30am and travel through Sturmer, Stoke by Clare and Clare before returning to town along the A143.

Lots of fun at the Two Counties Motor Show

THE rain failed to put off the hundreds of visitors to the Two Counties Motor Show held at Newmarket on Sunday week.

New and classic vehicles were on display for serious and amateur enthusiasts alike to admire, and in some cases explore, at the event organised by the Cambridge and Newmarket Lions Clubs and backed by the News. There was a wide selection of stalls and activities for the whole family to enjoy at the Rowley Mile site, plus local car clubs were in attendance.

VW's latest is a good Match

VOLKSWAGEN is ensuring that the award-winning Golf hatchback remains a hot seller with the introduction of the new Golf Match, which comes out of the box with even more specification than the SE model it replaces at no extra cost. That means customers get behind the wheel of the Golf Match 1.4-litre TSI 122 PS BlueMotion Technology six-speed manual three-door model from just £19,680.

The Golf SE was already one of the most comprehensively well-specified vehicles in its class, and the new Match adds even more features that customers are sure to value, including front and rear parking sensors, front fog lights and a mirror pack, which consists of automatically-folding door mirrors with puddle lights and reverse-activated dipping on the nearside. New 16-inch 'Dover' alloys distinguish the Match.

All Golf models come with seven airbags, including a driver's knee airbag; ABS with ESC, XDS electronic differential lock; an automatic post-collision braking system and Isofix preparation for two rear child seats. The entry-level Composition Media system includes a 5.8-inch colour touchscreen, DAB digital radio, a CD player, MDI interface with 30-pin and Lightning connectors, Bluetooth telephone preparation and audio streaming and eight speakers. Also standard is air conditioning, a Stop/Start system along with battery regeneration, and a host of other features.

Moving from S to Match trim brings an outstanding range of features, including standard ACC Adaptive Cruise Control with Front Assist and City Emergency Braking, a Driver Alert System, PreCrash preventive occupant protection, Driver Profile Selection, automatic wipers, an automatically dimming rear-view mirror and dusk sensor (automatic driving lights).

The GT model comes with 17-inch alloy wheels, lowered sports suspension, 'Cherry Red' rear light clusters and heat-insulating dark-tinted rear glass, ambient lighting and the Discover Navigation media and navigation system with 5.8-inch colour touchscreen.

The Golf Match is available with a 1.4-litre TSI 122 PS engine with either six-speed manual or seven-speed DSG gearboxes returning 54.3 to 56.5 mpg combined; a 1.6-litre TDI 105 PS engine with five-speed manual or seven-speed DSG gearbox returning 72.4 to 74.3 mpg; and a 2.0-litre TDI 150 PS with six-speed manual or six-speed DSG gearbox returning 62.8 to 68.9 mpg.

The Golf Match is available to order now, with the first deliveries expected in September. More at volkswagen.co.uk.

GOOD LOOKS: The Overfinch Range Rover Sport is the ultimate 4x4

Overfinch star turn shows off Range Rover's pedigree

RANGE Rover tuning and styling company Overfinch will be unveiling its gorgeous Overfinch Range Rover Sport at Salon Privé – the home of The British Supercar Show and Chubb Insurance Concours d'Elegance.

The Range Rover Sport has long been the choice of the SUV owner looking for a performance edge and now the exclusive Overfinch conversion adds bespoke design, luxury and exclusivity to the mix. With its assertive stance and distinctive styling features it commands attention, while the exquisite detailing of the interior is a tactile and visual delight.

Adding to its driver appeal is a unique Overfinch performance package, including a Bluetooth-controlled 'track mode' exhaust valve liberating the full sound of the supercharged 5-litre V8 engine.

Prices start from £87,995: Chubb Insurance Concours d'Elegance is on September 3.

Orchard Manor Transition Service

Scope exists to make this country a place where disabled people have the same opportunities as everyone else. Until then, we'll be here. Orchard Manor Transition Service in Meldreth provides residential and day services for 18 - 26 year olds with complex needs, physical disabilities and learning disabilities. We are looking for dedicated staff to work with young adults in a variety of exciting roles.

Team Leader

Full time permanent • £23,546 - £27,790 pa

You will be working as part of the management team, leading a team and ensuring the effective operation of all aspects of management within the flats. You will also contribute to the development of the service and participate in the duty manager system.

You will have:

- Significant current experience of supervising a team.
- Excellent communication skills including the use of IT systems.
- Demonstrable experience of delivering and promoting high standards of care directly and through staff management.
- An NVQ Level 3 qualification in Health and Social Care (or equivalent) and a willingness to take part in training systems.

Closing date for applications for Team Leader: 28 July 2014.

Please quote job reference: TLCENOM0714.

Support Workers

Full time, part time, bank or mainly waking nights

Sleeping in duties will also apply

£7.51 - £8.94 ph (dependent on qualifications & experience)

You will be responsible for supporting the young people with daily activities within their homes and sessions as well as attending community based activities which may include trips to the cinema, college, swimming, horse riding, work experience, church and a variety of social events. You will need good communication skills, a professional manner and a willingness to support with all aspects of the person's daily routines and activities including eating, drinking and personal care.

You will need some experience in a care setting, enthusiasm and a determination to provide excellent support to disabled young adults, and availability to work a flexible rota.

Please quote job reference: SWCEN0714.

Experience is always valued but for the Support Worker role this is not essential, we will provide induction, training and there is an opportunity for you to gain a Diploma in Health and Social Care if not previously completed.

We particularly welcome applications from disabled people.

Single person accommodation is available if required (favourable rent).

We particularly welcome applications from disabled people. Successful applicants will be subject to an Enhanced DBS check.

To find out more about what we do – and what we could do for you – contact Lorraine Holmes on 01763 268033 for an application pack (or send CV), email recruitment.meldreth@scope.org.uk or visit www.scope.org.uk/jobs quoting the appropriate reference.

Hayward Medical Communications is a talented team of highly skilled individuals with a passion for delivering innovative, award-winning solutions with our healthcare partners. We work with key healthcare stakeholders across Europe who share our desire to make a real difference to patient care and outcomes.

We have the following vacancies available for people who feel they can contribute to our shared vision through their insight, partnership, experience, integrity, and flexibility.

Managing Editor (£24-40K depending on experience)

As Managing Editor, you will be responsible for managing at least two of Hayward's clinical, review-based journals. With previous experience as a senior editor within a science or pharmaceutical background, you will be charged with developing a range of multi-channel publications, collaborating with external experts (Editors, Editorial Boards and authors) and ensuring content is clinically relevant and engaging.

Candidates must be self-motivated, with the ability to work to strict deadlines. A life science degree is preferred, but not essential. You should be able to demonstrate strong editing skills and a passion for transforming complex text into accessible copy. You will need to be highly organised, with excellent interpersonal and people management skills. As the successful editor of these publications, you will work closely with the Account team, and have the chance for travel to industry conferences and events.

Editorial Project Manager (£16-26K depending on experience)

As Editorial Project Manager, you will be responsible for managing the editorial production, quality and timeliness of a variety of projects. Whether you are working on a journal or a medical communications project, you will play an active role in commissioning content, developing professional relationships with authors and experts, copy editing and project budget control.

Candidates must be able to demonstrate a keen eye for detail, a flexible approach and an ability to meet deadlines. You will require strong organisational skills and should be able to play an active, but not necessarily lead, role with Hayward's Account teams and clients. A life sciences degree, or experience of multi-channel STM publishing, is preferred, but not essential.

Advertising and Subscriptions Co-ordinator (£16-20K depending on experience)

As Advertising and Subscriptions Co-ordinator, you will support the business operations team with particular responsibility for co-ordinating the advertising and subscriptions associated with Hayward's portfolio of clinical, review-based journals.

Candidates must be able to demonstrate good organisational skills, be able to juggle a number of tasks at once, and should see selling advertising as an opportunity for their future development. You must have excellent IT skills. A life science background is not essential for this team administration role, but a science background might enable you to develop into some of our other client-facing opportunities.

To apply for any of these roles, please send your CV to: Michelle Curtis, Hayward Medical Communications, The Pines, Fordham Road, Newmarket, CB8 7LG or email personnel@hayward.co.uk

www.hayward.co.uk

Join our successful marketing operation

Marketing officer: £20-25k FTE (20-25 hours per week)

Acteon creates award-winning communication and learning solutions for national and international clients in many sectors. We design, write and produce engaging and effective materials, and provide practical consultancy to ensure a perfect fit to our clients' requirements. Our work is innovative, collaborative and founded on great communication.

We are now looking for a Marketing Officer to support our Marketing Manager and consultant team in marketing and selling our services. The Marketing Officer will:

- liaise confidently with a range of stakeholders including clients, internal teams, suppliers and partner organisations
- administer marketing communications and PR activity
- support lead generation activities
- manage marketing databases and provide appropriate reports.

We offer the chance to be part of a dynamic and creative business with stimulating work in a friendly, informal environment based in our office in central Cambridge. The ideal candidate will have at least 2 years relevant experience, including use of CRM systems and email marketing software, and confidence with interrogating and cleaning marketing data.

For a full job description and details of how to apply, go to www.acteoncommunication.com/vacancies/

Application deadline: Friday 25 July 2014.

We are looking for a highly motivated and experienced Benefits Advisor to join our programme team in Cambridge.

The post holder will work as a member of a multi-disciplinary team providing Maggie's integrated programme of support to people affected by cancer and will be responsible for providing support to enable people to maximise income, by providing advice and assisting people to access available benefits and other sources of financial help.

Applications are invited from those with significant paid experience in welfare benefits and money advice, and you should be educated to degree or diploma level with at least two years experience in providing benefits advice. Experience of working with people affected by a chronic or serious illness such as cancer would be an advantage.

A full job description and person specification can be downloaded at www.maggiescentres.org/about-maggies/work-for-us/latest-vacancies/

Applications should be in the format of CV with covering letter by email only to: recruitment@maggiescentres.org

Blackjacks close to play-off place after thrashing Archers

HAVERHILL Blackjacks are just one win away from booking their place in the British Baseball Federation, A South League play-offs after keeping up their perfect record with a 36-12 drubbing of Essex Archers.

But it looked as if it would be a much closer affair until injuries to the home side's Jamie Bronson and Sean Fucile took their toll.

Blackjacks scored three runs in the first inning only for Essex to reply with five runs following two errors from the visitors in the second.

Haverhill added a run and Alan Symons drew them level with the first of his five runs only for Archers to move 9-7 ahead after the fourth inning.

But home catcher Bronson was forced to the outfield after suffering a thumb injury soon after and Essex suffered a further blow when Fucile pulled a hamstring, meaning they had to play on a man short.

The merciless visitors took their chance by chalking up 10 runs in the fifth with Carlos Bolivar picking up three RBIs, and followed it with 16 more in the sixth.

Steven Phillips scored two quick runs and 14-year-old Liam World added a pair while Marcus Gooday, Rob Wood, Steven Esdale and Dylan Shephard all got on the scoreboard.

Haverhill notched three more runs in the seventh inning before the slaughter rule was enforced. They will look to ensure their play-off berth at home to Tonbridge on Sunday.

Perfect pitch: Steven Fuentas in action for Haverhill Blackjacks against Essex Archers.

Rovers fundraising day is a success

HAVERHILL Rovers raised a total of £2,149.10 from their recent golf day at Haverhill Golf Club.

The day saw teams battling it out in an 18-hole competition, along with having the opportunity to take part in three separate skills tests.

The team led by Rovers first team player Paul Abbott won first prize for the day, sponsored by Valentine Solicitors and The Mortgage Centre.

Neil Hammond's team took the Mark Wilsher Design-sponsored second place prize and Andy Portage's side were third, with their prize sponsored by Silverwood Builders.

Greene King Brewery sponsored the putting competition, which was won by Mick Tokley. There were also nearest the pin, which was won by W Smith, and longest drive prizes, won by M Reeve, which were sponsored by Steve Brown.

Rovers season tickets are now on sale for £100.

They allow access to every home league match for the first team and the under-18s.

Matchday prices have also been frozen for the season at £6 adults, £3 concessions and family tickets £8 for first team matches.

Rovers' under-11 girls team are looking for a new manager to take the players forward in the coming years, as well as build new teams within the club.

The under-16s are also seeking a sponsor and anyone who can help out with either should contact secretary Julie Ankers via julesankers@gmail.com.

Fairheads take wins at Haverhill's Captain's Day

TED and Anna Fairhead were amongst the main competition winners when Haverhill Golf Club hosted their annual Captain's Day.

The format was individual stableford, played off seven-eighths handicap, with three competitions for the men and a separate event for the ladies.

Ted won the competition for 10 to 18 handicappers with 39. He was one ahead of Anthony Archer, who took the runner-up spot on countback.

Meanwhile, Anna needed countback to take the ladies' competition after both she and Pat Wellstead scored 36.

Elsewhere, Andy Rushforth was victorious in the event for scratch to nine handicap golfers, scoring 37 points to finish two ahead of Andy Fish.

Paul Chapman's 32 saw him take the high handicap category (19-28) prize and Len Adams was second with 32.

Nearest the pin for the low handicap golfers on hole 12 was won by Paul Bartlett and nearest the pin in two on hole 14 was won by Russell Palmer.

Nearest the pin on the 16th for the mid-handicap golfers was won by Don Simpson and nearest the pin in two on the ninth was won by Peter McLennan.

Nearest the pin on the second for high handicap golfers was won by Adams and nearest the pin in two on the fifth was won by Pat O'Sullivan.

Rebecca Hazell won the ladies'

nearest the pin on eighth.

Ann Thompson won Haverhill's ladies' midweek medal by eight shots after carding a nett score of 70.
